

Data Protection Declaration

1. Subject of this data protection declaration This declaration informs you on how we handle the personal data that is disclosed to us when you are using the website and the services offered by the website operator. Furthermore, the declaration includes the use of personal data obtained by the website operator through his business partners. However, it does not include the use of any data by enterprises independent from the website operator, or by people who are neither employed nor have been commissioned by the website operator. The examples given below are merely illustrations, they do not constitute a comprehensive list of all likely events and possible actions.

2. Collection and use of data As soon as you use particular offers and/or services, the website operator will collect your personal data. Sometimes the website operator will also receive personal data from his business partners. The website operator automatically collects and saves information transmitted by your browser to the webserver log files of the website operator. Such information includes for example your IP address, information stored by the website operator with your permission on cookies as well as the page you have just accessed.

3. Data transmission to third parties The website operator will not transmit or disclose personal data to third parties except in one of the following cases. The website operator will transmit personal data to third parties only, if you have agreed to the transmission; the transmission becomes necessary in order to carry out the offers or services you wish to make use of; such data are required by a sub-contractor or a person employed by the website operator in the performance of his obligation, whom the website operator employs to carry out offers or services (however, unless expressly given other instructions, such assistants are only entitled to use the data to such an extent as is necessary in order to fulfil the offer or service); we receive an enforceable directive, decree or judicial order; this becomes necessary to prevent, in accordance with the law, the improper use of our offers or services, especially if such use would violate the general terms and conditions of business or the particular terms and conditions of use of the website operator.

4. Data security The website operator applies utmost care to protect your personal data and information against loss, unauthorised access, disclosure, alteration or destruction. In order to guarantee confidentiality and security, the data on your user account are protected by a password.

5. Amendments of this data protection declaration The website operator reserves the right to alter this data protection declaration in the future. Should the website operator decide to use your personal data in any other way as stated in this data protection declaration at the time when the data were collected, the website operator will try to notify you by e-mail using the most recent information available. However, if we do not have the permission to contact you, we will neither inform you, nor will we use your personal data in any new or different way. We will, of course, announce any amendment of our data protection declaration in an appropriate way on our website.

6. Questions, complaints and suggestions Should you have any questions, complaints, doubts or suggestions regarding this data protection declaration or the use and/or disclosure of your personal data, please fill in our feed-back form or send us an e-mail to the following address: office@dkintertrade.com